LIGHTNING STRIKES TWO HOMES DURING SUNDAY NIGHT STORM

Most Damage is Done at Home of Charles G. Lewis on Luella Avenue

ONE OF FAMILY IS STUNNED

Ralph Lewis on Way Home When he Feels Shock—William Little Dwell- ing Not Damaged—First Storm Spoils Church Attendance.

During the Sunday evening storm at 10 o'clock the dwellings of Charles C. Lewis at 203 Luella avenue and William Little at 202 Lookout avenue were struck by lightning. Fortunately no lives were lost and the damage was not heavy.

The greatest loss was at the Lewis home. Whether the same bolt of lightning struck both or whether a bolt followed quickly upon bolt is a question, but the damage was done at the same moment. Ralph Lewis, a member of the Lewis family was on his way home and was between the two houses when the vivid flash came. He was knocked to the street and stunned. No one else was hurt. He continued on his way home unaided.

At the Lewis home chimney bricks were loosened and the cornice partly torn from the house. The telephone was wrenched from the wall as clearly as though a cleaver had been used. Other damage was done about the house. Fortunately in the extreme were members of the family, all of whom escaped injury in spite of the hide-and-go-seek antics of the lightning through the rooms.

The chimney of the Little home was struck and presumably none of the family hurt.

So far as can be learned little other serious damage was done. Electric lights blinked and went out momentarily during the heavy pyrotechnic display, but Superintendent George Leith of the local West Penn power station reports no damage was done. Only slight damage was wrought on the telephone systems and trolley systems were not badly disturbed.

The worst storm was the second one. At 7:15 the clouds opened and the community was thoroughly drenched by a driving rain which lasted long enough to thoroughly discourage church attendance. Another drenching followed at 10 in the wake of this storm, with the brilliant electrical display being only a part. Fair weather is now promised with perhaps a little relief from the warmth.

FOURTH OF JULY TO BE COMPLETE HOLIDAY HERE

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in Charleroi much as usual, and will be a complete holiday. There will be no marked observance of the day though there will be several events held. The Alpha Phi Beta fraternity will entertain at their annual picnic at Oakland park. The Charleroi Bathing beach will be an attractive place and the show grounds at the baseball park will be open, with a concert in the afternoon a feature.

Local baseball teams will be cut of town. The Charleroi Babes will play at Rochester and two games will be played by the Pittsburgh Steel Products at Monongahela.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Monessen Machine Goes Over Bank at Donora—James Ague, Driver of Machine Believed to be Injured Internally

An automobile accident of serious consequences occurred near Fourteenth street at Donora this morning about 8 o'clock, in which James Ague of Monessen was critically injured and others in his car more or less hurt. All were taken to Monessen to the Ague home.

In the car at the time were Mr. and Mrs. James Ague and sons Harold and Charles of Monessen and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berryman of Woodlawn. They were on their way to Woodlawn. A milk wagon started across Fourteenth street, Donora, just as the Ague automobile approached. Brakes were applied suddenly, causing the machine to swerve. It went backwards over a 15-foot embankment. Mr. Ague was caught between the steering wheel and the side of the car. He is believed to be critically injured. Mrs. Ague sustained a cut above her eye and another across her forehead. Charles was cut and bruised about the body. Mr. Berryman sustained a cut across his face that almost severed his nose.

VESTA COAL TO BUILD NEW COALING STATION

Construction of Large Coal Bin to Begin Shortly—Bin to be Electrically Equipped so That Supplying Coal Will be Easy

The Vesta Coal company have under contemplation the erection of a large coal bin at the old Vesta mine, No. 1 at Vesta, to use for a coaling station for all their towboats plying between mills and their mines. Part of the material is now on the ground ready for the work to begin.

Old abutments used when the Vesta No. 1 mine was in operation will be utilized in the construction and arrangement of the coal bin.

The coal bin will be electrically equipped so that hoisting coal from barges will be easy. From the bins an easy method of supply towboats of the company will be the result. The Vesta Coal company have a fleet of six steamers, the Alquippa, the Vulcan, the Henry A. Laughlin, the Vesta, the Sailor and the Titan.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY TO BE BIG FEATURE AT ELDORA PARK FOURTH

Only Organized Display Along Valley to be Set Off at Eldora—Experts Will be in Charge.

So far as is known the only organized fireworks display in the upper Monongahela valley on the Fourth of July will be that at Eldora park. An expert will be in charge of the display, coming from the American Fireworks company at Dunbar, probably the best known distributing agency of fireworks in the western end of the state.

The display at the park will consist of numerous set pieces, rockets and so forth and will be set off beginning at 9 o'clock in the evening. Preceding and following the fireworks display there will be dancing. In the afternoon of the Fourth also there will be dancing and the amusements will be operated in full.

SHOWS HERE FOR A WEEK'S STAND

Con. T. Kennedy Company Comes Under Auspices of Hospital Association

CONCERT WILL BE FEATURE

The Con T. Kennedy shows, which will be here all this week under the auspices of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Association, reached this city early Sunday afternoon on their own train of 30 cars. In a short time the work of unloading had been completed, and all the tents and paraphernalia hauled to the baseball park. Long before the robins were up this morning, the Kennedy forces were at work getting the equipment in place and by noon everything could have opened if desired. Mr. Kennedy will not permit his men to do any more work on Sunday than is absolutely necessary, and for that reason the finishing touches were put on today. The baseball park proved too small for the Kennedy show, which is said not only to be the best, but also the largest in the business, and it will be necessary to erect several of them outside the fence.

The rain of Sunday night prevented the free band concert, making it impossible to hold it according to schedule. If an opportunity presents itself, the concert will be given later, the band will appear on the streets of Charleroi, every afternoon and evening during the week. At night, Miss Elyene Everson will sing appropriate selections with the band, which is under the direction of Prof. A. U. Eslick, one of the best known leaders in the circus world.

Special arrangements have been completed to entertain the residents of this city tomorrow. A band concert will be held on the grounds, and there will be a number of free acts on the midway during the entire afternoon and evening. Those who wish Continued on Page 4.

Regiment Moves in Three Sections, But Route of Travel is Not Known

NO WORD FROM COMPANY A

Details of Departure Not Explained by Soldier Boys to Whom Orders are Issued Sunday—Tenth Crack Regiment of 7th Division.

The Tenth infantry under command of Colonel Richard Coulter, left Camp Brumbaugh Sunday night on its journey to Texas. The regiment will move to Texas in three sections. The first section of the regiment was scheduled to leave at 5:30 o'clock, the second section at 6 o'clock and the third section at 6:30 o'clock, but owing to the scarcity of cars the regiment did not get started until late at night.

Rations for five days were issued to the regiment. It is expected that this regiment will reach El Paso not later than next Friday. As the war department has issued an order to give out for publication the route of the troop trains moving to the Texas border, the route of the Tenth infantry was not made public.

The tents were lowered and loading of equipment was begun as soon as the orders to move were issued. At the Tenth regiment headquarters there was much going among the men when the orders were issued to break camp.

Colonel Coulter was jubilant, watched the regiment breaking without the slightest confusion. Men worked like a machine. To observe the manner in which they went about their work was a revelation of the perfect system characteristic of the United States regulars.

It is just a trifle over 18 years since this organization broke camp to cross the Pacific ocean to service for this country. After a campaign of 18 months in the Philippines the regiment returned to country after a service of 21 months in which the members bore the name of the "Fighting Tenth." Colonel Coulter takes with him the Texas concentration camp, the best organizations that carried the colors of the Tenth. His commanders are thorough officers and his men are of did type, physically and mentally. The regiment left camp at strength.

"I have an excellent regiment," Colonel Coulter said, "and I hope of themselves if called to do so." The Sixteenth regiment will leave today, and the Eighteenth regiment the last of the Second Infantry to depart from camp Wednesday. No word was received from members of Company A concerning the departure of the Tenth. Company A, one of the crack companies of the Tenth and the largest. Local interest is centered in the operations of the Tenth from the fact that it is composed entirely of western Pennsylvania men.

WAR'S INFLUENCE

The world is thoroughly familiar with the word "war" and the of such a standard of civilization of the German people. The state of society and earnest zeal into which France has been brought by a great national crisis furnishes one of the most striking examples of human attachment to a great principle which history has recorded, says the Uniontown Gossip of Liberty. Russia, cursed with vodka at the beginning of the conflict, struck vigorously at the national vice. It not only went out of business of selling vodka, but it flatly forbade the sale of vodka throughout the empire. The results of this prohibition on a national scale are to be seen in a marked diminution of crimes—reported by one court as 62 per cent—and by a notable increase in the working powers and the earning capacity of the farmers and the laboring men.

England has far from fully awakened to the crisis but a national campaign for thrift has made wonderful progress even if action along other needed lines has been slow. The thrift campaign has made its way among all classes. Women of the working classes, enriched by highly paid employment in munition factories, as well as women of the nobility, are developing habits of thrift that are affecting the national character. Fewer and less elaborate clothes, simpler living, the elimination of the use of the automobile for pleasure riding among the rich and a marked reduction in the expenditures for entertainment among the working classes, are outward signs of the spiritual change for the better which the English people are undergoing under the sobering and regenerating influences of the time.

Throughout the other countries at war the same spirit of devotion has been evoked by the appeal of great causes. It will be a new Europe that Americans will find across the Atlantic after the turmoil is over. Will Europeans find this country a better stronger, more prepared nation also at that time?

NEWSPAPER A DAILY HABIT

A well-known advertising man at the annual session of the National Advertising clubs being held this week in the city of Philadelphia, emphasized the value of newspaper advertising, saying that the most consistent habit of the American people today is newspaper reading. "The newspaper," said he, "is a fixed daily habit in the lives of the men, women and children. It is read every day by every purchaser of everything everywhere. It is read by the consumer who buys the article, and by the dealer who sells it; and like the weather, it is universal. In every city, town or hamlet it is a local institution, known in every home and carrying with it the atmosphere of the community. It is the one daily means offered to the individual of laying his finger upon the pulse of the world, and coming as a well-known messenger, it personalizes the events of the day."

Advertising, declares the Washington Observer, in a newspaper of known circulation represents, to the advertiser, the minimum of waste.
When a dealer places his announcement in this sort of a publication he knows where the going is good and skips places where he cannot do business. He gets in direct touch with the people every day at a time when he can secure their attention. The dealer knows that newspaper advertised goods will not grow dusty on his shelves.

As one of the newspaper advocates well says: "We have reason to be enthusiastic. A thrill of just pride goes with the knowledge that the medium we represent is the greatest social, political and commercial force in the world. Most of us live and die in the business, not because the financial rewards are colossal, but because other music is tame, tuneless stuff to ears that know the hum of the high-speed presses. And while we are strongly partisan in advocating our medium we do not lose sight of the real merits and the real values offered by our competitors. We are cognizant of advertising ideas and purposes that do not square with our own; some of them we respect and of the rest we strive to be tolerant."

Whether war becomes an actuality or the troops are disbanded a powerful lesson has been taught the government. It has found out what patriotism and near patriots have been wondering about for the last several years, what time it takes to get together a moveable and efficient force of fighters. Mistakes have been made of course, since perfecting an organization in a few day's time with a raw army of recruits is manifestly impossible. It is a big job getting an army together and attending to the million and one details and no man can do it, unless it happens to be that same circus head who away back in '98 organized things so efficiently that departure from a certain coast city to the scene of conflict was accomplished by an American army in The state has arranged as usual to supply antitoxin where needed to prevent Fourth of July tragedies, but it has not arranged to prevent those things which make the antitoxin necessary, because it can't. Common sense within legal bounds is left to determine the method by which we should observe the Fourth. It is up to the people to use it. To be patriotic does not require the noise of costly firecrackers or deadly home-made cannons. Quite often the one who makes the least noise is the most patriotic. Every Fourth of July celebration contains a warning. Let us heed the last one, which is a repetition of all those preceding.

Putting Sunday school work on a business-like basis is what the Washington County Sabbath School Association is doing as a result of the twenty-first convention held at California. Incorporation is only a part. Henceforth the Sunday school work will be conducted in the county by a board of directors similar to the board of directors of any large corporation. This is a progressive measure that should add wonderfully to the importance and effectiveness of the work.

The Charleroi Daring Beach deserves patronage. No better evidence of this fact is to be offered than that it is being copied elsewhere.
Monongahela is endeavoring to operate a beach somewhat after the pattern of Charleroi's and other towns would copy if they could. Charleroi has taken the leadership and an inspection of the beach gives indication that it proposes to keep it.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The recruit, who had a strong desire to escape service, was being examined in the eye-sight test. The size of the eye was found to be unusually small and he was not allowed to see his way out.

There is a story of a prisoner entering a jail and saying to the guard, "I want to see the warden."

"Of course I can," he replied distinctly. "The warden will see you."

"Thank you," said the young man, "I want to see the warden."

"The warden's eyes differed."

"The warden," he said, "has been in the night school."

"No, doctor," said the young man, "I want to see the warden."

"I can't see you for a week so don't you go looking for any excessive appendicitis symptoms."

The doctor's face fell and it turned out that the young man only had indigestion, after all.

BOY SERIOUSLY HURT IN FALL FROM HORSE

Frances Luellen of Beallsville Injured Saturday Night and Does Not Regain Consciousness Until Sunday Morning.

Frances Luellen, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Luellen of Beallsville, is at the home of her parents suffering from serious injuries sustained Saturday evening in a fall from a horse. He was unseated as he came to a stop at the end of the road and the child was thrown from his back and fractured.

Young Luellen has been staying with his grandfather, Daniel Luellen, of Beallsville, and was riding home last Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock. When near the home of Z. T. Reister, his horse started and he believed, and threw him to the ground on his head. Mr.
Reister noticed the horse standing along the roadside and investigating found the boy lying in the road unconscious.

He carried him to his home and sent for Mr. Luellen. The latter with Dr. Milton F. Manning, left at once for the Reister home. Examination showed that the injuries about the head were the most serious.

NATURE'S MISTAKE ONE OF CARNIVAL FEATURES

"Nature's greatest mistake," is the title given the Samar (Siamese) Twins, who are here with the Con T.
Kennedy shows during the week of July 3. It is one of the most interesting and instructive exhibits before the public today and appeals particularly to the thinking class. The twins are not freaks—they are joined together naturally by a band of cartilage and flesh, the manner in which they were born into the world. Eminent surgeons, who have examined these little fellows, declare they cannot be separated without sacrificing the life of one and possibly both.

The boys are now six years of age, have been well educated and are above the average in intelligence. They speak and understand three different languages, and carry on an interesting conversation on almost any current topic. They have been exhibited in all parts of the world but are a greater attraction and more interesting now than ever before. They are normal in every respect, except that they are joined together, yet this does not keep them from enjoying life. No two happier boys were ever known and they romp and play like any other children. They are as full of mischief as any youngsters, and have their own arguments and disputes.

They are natives of the Philippine Islands, with swarthy skin and beautiful coal black hair. The boys are well developed, strong, and carry one another around on their backs. They are in the care of James Dunleavy and a father could not give them more time or attention. An interesting lecture, telling the history of the boys is given at each performance.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work.
I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got worse. I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and other spells and my head would always burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's stepfather told my husband I should not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Mon-

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E.

GINGLES' JINGLES

JERRY.
There are many good conductors and not dead ones—no, not much, kind, good-hearted human fellows who are not there with the touch; what the company has coming they will get, they take no chance, one of such is our friend Jerry, some conductor on some branch. He treats all his patrons kindly and the railroad gets it's fare, he's your friend he'll grant you favors, but you must be on the square; bumps they say don't bother Jerry, should he stop and turn them loose in the wilds through which he travels, that forsooth, would cook their goose.
But he's right and he's obliging, of that I got ample proof, when a lady told him sadly, as she lapped the old coach roof, "Mornin', Jerry, I am headed for the graveyard near your track."

Jerry said, "I'll stop the train there." They pulled by, he made them back.
As he helped her with her baggage, as he bowed her from the train, Jerry thought he'd ease her sadness—thought he'd calm her mental strain, so he said, "We all must face it.
Some close relative I fear?" She said, "No, my sister Susie lives not very far from Linn's Single
here."

Fat Baby Boy Raw and Blistered—Healed by heals the skin. After all other remedies failed it healed the raw, blistered skin of a fat baby boy."

This is because of the healing, sootheing and antiseptic medication contained

Grand Opera at Donora.
Announcement that the celebrated San Carlo Grand Opera Company, the splendid organization which established a record for attendance on Grand Opera in Pittsburg during the past season, when it played to a capacity business at the Nixon, is to be at the Donora Chautauqua on Tuesday evening, July 4, at eight o'clock, opens the door of opportunity for our people, and doubtless there will be an exodus toward that place on the date mentioned.

The San Carlo Company is the most pretentious offering which the Chautauquas have yet made to the American public. The notable cast includes such celebrated singers as Kaestner, Eversman (recently signed by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, Vaccari, DeMatte, Homer, Agostini, Antola, Graziani, Modesti, DiBiasi, and the program to be given includes the greatest moments from the greatest grand operas, such as Il Trovatore, Carmen, Rigoletto, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pappagiaci, Lucia di Lammermoor. In each instance the principal parts are sung by the artists best adapted to the role, and the result is a grand opera program of unsurpassable brilliancy.

The 1915-16 tour of the San Carlo Company included such cities as Boston, Washington, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, Detroit, Pittsburg, and in every instance a notable success was won. The opportunity to hear this great organization is a specially prepared program at the price of the ordinary concert is one of which is sure to command much attention.

Special music will add to the program.

The Three Scutaris.
By this time we should all know enough about the near east not to confound the various Scutaris—the one in Albania, the one opposite Constantinople and the one in southern Greece. It is curious that each game comes from a different original form. The Greek Scutari is otherwise Scutari; the Albanian one is the Marjan Scutari, and the Asiatic one is the Turkish Uskudar. This last means a courier carrying royal orders from station to station and commemorates the fact that this place, the ancient Chrysopolis or City of Gold, was the starting point of the Asiatic Express to the Constantinople.

The Limit in Politeness.
A certain professor is unusually courteous, both in and out of the classroom. One day he made a bonfire in his back garden. The flames, creeping rapidly through the dry stubble, frightened him, and he shouted his house was in imminent danger. So he ran wildly down the street, crying at the top of his voice:

"Help! Fire! Fire! Help!"
And then, as if thinking himself too abrupt and urgent, he politely added, so his neighbors say:
"That is all those who are concernedly do so."—New York Times

A woman from the city was spending the summer in a small town, and one day while doing her marketing she asked the butcher how he happened to choose his business.

He hesitated a moment, and then—"Well, I don't know," he answered, "but I always was fond of animals."—Everybody's.

Well, It Is Hard.
"Which of your school studies do you consider the hardest, John?"
"Oh, geology! It's all about rocks you know."—

Pretty Bad.
"Was the play bad?"
"Well, I should say. Why, even the lights went out at the close of the second act."—

Light cases speak; great ones are dumb.—Seneca.

AN ELEPHANT RIDE

The First Try on a Padded Animal Is a Fearful Ordeal.

FEELS LIKE AN EARTHQUAKE.

And Resembles For a Time Trying to Sit on a Steep Slanting Roof—The Big Brutes Are Timid, and Little Pigs and Quicksands Terrify Them.

Elephant riding is a thing that, like glassing to see human anatomy, requires a good deal of practice. The first ride is a little more to be forgotten, more especially if it happens to be on a padded animal—that is to say, one that carries no load of seat or any kind of support. The first, hard, lumpy, mattress, which is fastened on by four large rough ropes, pulled as tight as man's strength can pull them. If there are two or three other persons already mounted you get a corner of this mattress to sit on and are told to hold on by the ropes.

Meanwhile the elephant is getting tired of kneeling and keeps making heaving motions unpleasantly suggestive of the sea. You strive wildly to get your fingers under one of the ropes and are asked impatiently if you are ready.

You do not feel at all ready or likely ever to be ready, for your seat is uncertain and slippery, and for the life of you you cannot get a fair hold on the ropes.

Breaking your nails in a last desperate effort, you say feebly that you are ready, when with a sudden jerk, that seems to drag all your bones out of their sockets, you are tilted up on a steep slope, about as pleasant to sit on as the side of a slanting roof.

But you have no time to enjoy the position, for there comes another foundation-jerk that knocks your hat over your eyes and throws you violently against your next neighbor, after which you find your seat is level again, and it presently dawns upon you that this earthquake was, in truth, merely the elephant's customary way of rising. He is now slowly and solemnly stalking onward, as you are aware by feeling your spine rhythmically and soundlessly dislocated at each noiseless step.

At first it seems to you as odd that you should ever come to like riding an elephant, as that feels should come to like being skinned, and your friend's assurance that you will ere long be able to dispense with the aid of ropes and go on chatting and even smiling while that colossal upheaval takes place falls on the ear as an idle tale.

Nevertheless it is the truth. Before a week is over you hardly notice the getting up or the kneeling down. You rarely take hold of a rope, and you are indifferent to almost any angle of steepness. You learn to appreciate the restfulness of being on a colossus that will never stumble, never shy, never frolic and with whose guidance you have no more to do than you have with that of a ship at sea.

Even when an elephant is mischievous he is so in a solemn, well considered manner. He will not run away, though he will on occasion stride away, and a sufficient absurd sight it is, though not to those on his back.

I once saw an elephant try conclusions with his mahout and stride off defiantly in a wrong direction till the savage blows rained upon his head by the driver with his heavy iron hook made him change his tactics. He pulled up short and began rocking his body violently to and fro till first one rider and then another was sent flying until all were gone.

The sight of them strutting the ground around him and ruefully rubbing their bruises assuaged his anger. An elephantine smile lit up his rugged face, and he once more rendered cheerful obedience to his mahout.

Considering his strength and size, the elephant is a timorous beast. They are greatly alarmed by small pigs, and I have known an otherwise sensible elephant utterly routed by a litter of piglets scrambling between his legs in thick grass jungle.

Now, a piglet can never hurt an elephant. Therefore whence his fear? Can it be their latent powers of squealing?

Certain it is that pigs share with quicksands the power of terrifying an elephant. His reasons for fearing quicksands are weighty ones, and it is impossible not to sympathize with the huge beast's agony of terror when he finds himself on unsound ground.

A spot was pointed out to us along the river bank at Fyzabad, where a year ago an elephant had got into a quicksand and been lost.

All that could be done to save him was done, but the treacherous sand would not forego its victim. Four days he took to sink out of sight, and then nothing could be seen of him but the tip of his trunk, still piteously beckoning in vain for help. At last the cruel sand closed over that, and his last agony was ended.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Some Pay More.
The man was looking over the family bills as his wife glanced through the paper.
"Oh, John," she said, "it tells here of a young fellow who was fined $6.80 for flirting."
"That's cheaper than I got off," replied the man, his eye still on the bills.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Moderation is the silken string running through the pearl chain of all virtue.—Nelson.
